Introduction	Information sheet	You are invited to take part in a research project that looks at your opinion regarding public policies aiming at mitigating climate change and decarbonizing key sectors of the economy. We also want to understand how support policies for affected workers (like financial aid or training) are viewed by those most impacted. Your answers will help us learn how these transitions can better protect jobs, communities, and democracy. This survey is run in France, Germany, Italy, Poland, and Spain. The research is led by Rens Chazottes at EPFL and Robin Huguenot-Noël at the Freie Universität Berlin. We will never share your survey responses with your employer, colleagues, or any union representatives; your answers are completely confidential. 1. Selection of Potential Participants You have been invited because you work in a sector that may be affected by climate transition policies—such as manufacturing, the automobile industry, chemicals, or aviation. Participation is open to all workers currently employed in these industries, regardless of job type or union membership. We are carrying out this project in accordance with EU regulation and Swiss law and ethical research standards. 2. Procedure for Participants If you choose to take part, you will be asked to complete an online questionnaire. It includes questions about your preferences between different policy proposals and how you feel about support measures, unions, and political views. The survey also asks a few general questions about your background (e.g., age group, job type, education). • Location: Online, via a secure survey platform (Qualtrics) • Number of surveys: 2 • Duration: Approximately 10 minutes 3. Benefits for Participants Your responses will help researchers and policymakers design better support measures for workers like you during the energy transition. You will also be entered into a lottery to win a €200 voucher as a thank you for your time. 4. Risks By participating in this study, you will not be exposed to any particular risks. Some questions may touch on sensitive topics like job security or political opinions. You are free to skip any questions that make you uncomfortable or stop the survey at any time. All responses are anonymous and cannot be traced back to you. 5. Discoveries During the Project For follow-up surveys and results dissemination, we will collect e-mail address, on a voluntary basis. If you prefer not to be informed of any potential findings and not participate in other survey waves, you are free to not provide your email address. 6. Participants' Rights Your participation is voluntary. You may stop the survey at any time, for any reason, without needing to explain. This will not affect your job or any union membership in any way. You also have the following rights: • To withdraw your participation before submitting your answers. • To be informed about the study and how we handle your data. • To access, correct, or delete your personal data (if any is collected—see below). • To object to the processing of personal data. • To file a complaint with your local data protection authority if you believe your data is being misused. 7. Protection of Personal Data This study collects your email address solely for the purpose of contacting winners of the lottery and for the participation to other survey waves. Your email will be stored separately from your survey responses, in a secure and protected folder. The data will be pseudonymised: this means your identifying information (such as your email) is replaced with a code and kept in a separate, secure file. As a result, your responses cannot be linked back to you personally, ensuring your anonymity is fully protected. All data will be stored securely on encrypted servers and only accessed by the research team. The anonymised data may be used in academic publications, but individuals or companies will never be identified. Once the study is completed, the data will be retained for a maximum of 5 years for academic purposes before being deleted or permanently anonymised. The research project is conducted by • Rens Chazottes, Ecole Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne (EPFL), rens.chazottes@epfl.ch, +33 6 95 23 95 53 • Robin Huguenot-Noël, Freie Universität (FU) Berlin, robin.huguenot-noel@fu-berlin.de, +49 176 578 361 70

	Consent	I declare that I have been informed in writing by the Principal Investigator about the objectives and the course of the project, as well as the presumed effects, advantages, possible disadvantages and possible risks. I have received sufficient information about this research project and I understand my role in it. The purpose of my participation in this project and the future processing of my personal data have been fully explained to me. I am taking part in this study, led by Rens Chazottes and Robin Huguenot-Noël, voluntarily and accept the contents of the information sheet I have been given about the above-mentioned project. I have had sufficient time to make my decision. I understand that I have the right to refuse to answer questions. I understand that I have the full right to withdraw my consent and stop the survey at any time. I understand that my personal data or samples are protected and will only be used in an encrypted / anonymized manner. I can revoke my consent to participate in the study at any time and without having to justify myself, without any adverse effects and I have been duly informed of my rights to use my personal data. I understand that I have the right to request deletion of data collected prior to withdrawal, provided that it is not yet anonymised and that it is technically possible to identify my responses to the survey. I understand that the researchers will not identify me by name or function in any results using information obtained from this survey and that my identity as a participant in this study remains protected by confidentiality. I consent to my email address being used by the research team and the university to exchange information about the workshop, my participation in the survey and to send the link to participate in the follow-up survey.

	Conjoint experiment	To address global warming, the government has adopted a five-year plan to reduce emissions in high-polluting sectors by phasing out fossil fuels. As part of this national effort, your region has been selected for early implementation of this plan. Your company is directly affected and expects to reduce its workforce by 30% over the 5 coming years. To limit the social costs of this transition, the government considers introducing a Just Transition package for affected workers and communities. In the following task, you will be shown four pairs of considered Just Transition packages. Each proposal includes a combination of features such as the level of financial support, job retraining opportunities, investment in local infrastructure, and more. For each pair, please review the proposals carefully and select the one you find more acceptable. There are no right or wrong answers—we are interested in your preferences.
